

Forum: Généralités

Topic: Google a-t-il manipulé une étude de sécurité pour couler Firefox ?

Subject: Re: Google a-t-il manipulé une étude de sécurité pour couler Firefox ?

Publié par: Anonyme

Contribution le : 20/12/2011 22:42:44

Merci ra-mon ! Une telle (bonne) nouvelle, cela se cite intégralement :

Citation :

Mozilla and Google Sign New Agreement for Default Search in Firefox

December 20th, 2011 · Mozilla News

We're pleased to announce that we have negotiated a significant and mutually beneficial revenue agreement with Google. This new agreement extends our long term search relationship with Google for at least three additional years.

"Under this multi-year agreement, Google Search will continue to be the default search provider for hundreds of millions of Firefox users around the world," said Gary Kovacs, CEO, Mozilla.

"Mozilla has been a valuable partner to Google over the years and we look forward to continuing this great partnership in the years to come," said Alan Eustace, Senior Vice President of Search, Google.

The specific terms of this commercial agreement are subject to traditional confidentiality requirements, and we're not at liberty to disclose them.

Citation :

jcm116 a écrit:

Une entreprise en sponsorisant "le libre" a toujours une idée derrière la tête, à savoir un retour sur investissement (sponsoring...).

C'est même la différence entre un sponsor et un mécène... Corrigé, merci !